American Journal of Hypertension
Summer School 2024

July 25-29, 2024

Loyola University
Chicago, Illinois
USA

Organizers:
R Clinton Webb
University of South Carolina

John E Hall
University of Mississippi Medical Center

The summer school is an opportunity for trainees to meet and learn together, creating a network of students and fellows to lead the next generation of hypertension scientists and educators.

Established investigators or those with more experience who wish to refresh and update their knowledge in basic and clinical hypertension research are also encouraged to attend. The school will also be helpful to clinicians or basic scientists who may be changing direction in their research programs and who wish to learn the basic principles and concepts behind new techniques used in hypertension research.

What you gain...

Knowledge
- basic
- clinical
- population

Community

Inspiration
Motivation

What you need to know...

01 Registration Opens Jan 1, 2024

02 All expenses except travel provided

Who can apply...

- Graduate students
- Postdoctoral fellows
- Medical students
- Residents
- Established investigators
- Clinicians

Link to journal: https://academic.oup.com/ajh