Authors are invited to follow this style sheet when drafting manuscripts for the JIEL. Any ideas or suggestions on how to elaborate this style sheet are welcome and should be sent to jiel@law.georgetown.edu

I. General

Language
Papers must be written in English. Oxford English or American spelling is acceptable, but it must be consistent throughout the manuscript. A characteristic feature of OUP house-style is the use of -ize where this is an alternative to -ise.

Paragraph formatting
The first line of paragraphs after a heading should be flush to the margin. Subsequent paragraphs should have the first line indented by one tab space.

Quotations
Single quotation marks should be used for quoted material; double quotation marks for quotations within quotations. If quotations are five lines or more, they should be separated from the rest of the text and should not be enclosed within any quotation marks. However, quotations within such separated quotations should be given single quotation marks.

Numbers
In inclusive page numbers, retain the last two digits, but drop other repetitious digits, e.g., 1075–79.

Dates
Day/month/year is preferred, e.g., 29 May 1984.

Typestyle: italics
Italics should only be used for case names, (sparingly) for emphasis, and for certain Latin terms and phrases. The following should always appear in roman type: ‘above’, ‘below’, and ‘see’.
Note that ‘above’, ‘below’ and ‘see’ are preferred to ‘supra’, ‘infra’ and ‘vide’; ‘ff’ should be used in place of ‘et seq.’ It is unnecessary to use ‘op cit’ or ‘loc cit’.

II. Layout

Articles and Notes
This is the suggested layout for articles and notes. Specific rules for book reviews can be found below.

Title
The title should normally not exceed 10 words. In addition to the full title of the paper, authors should also supply a running title of less than 40 characters.

Author’s name and bio
The author’s name should appear centered under the title. An asterisked footnote should indicate the author’s position, institutional address, and (if desired) brief acknowledgements. Please disclose any conflict questions, e.g., your involvement in a case you are commenting on. A short bio not exceeding one sentence may also be included, however, please do not mention degrees and qualifications or include a bibliography.
Abstract
Articles should be accompanied by an abstract. It should be written in complete sentences and should summarize the paper in less than 200 words. The abstract should be comprehensible to readers before they read the paper, and abbreviations and citations should be avoided.

Sub-divisions
Please use headings and sub-divisions. The first paragraph after a heading or new sub-division should be flush to the margin. Subsequent paragraphs should be indented. The main headings should be aligned on the left and numbered I, II, and so on. Second-level headings should be aligned on the left and lettered A, B, C, and so on. Third-level headings should be aligned on the left and numbered 1, 2, 3, and so on.

I. Introduction
II. The Biosafety Protocol
   A. Relationship with WTO Law
      1. Rules of conflict
      2. Principles of conciliation

Footnotes
As a general policy the JIEL prefers footnotes to endnotes. They should appear in numerical order. The footnote number follows any closing punctuation.

...exercised bona fide, that is to say, reasonably.'

Cross-references
Cross-references within footnotes should normally take the following form:

See Cheng, above n 1, at 127.

If the cross-reference is to the immediately preceding note, the reference should be:

Ibid, at 132.

Book Reviews

Title
Book reviews should be preceded by the full title of the book, the full name of its author, place of publication, name of the publisher, the year of publication, ISBN number, and number of pages.

Author’s name
The reviewer’s name should be placed at the end of the text.

...of a subject-matter, and thus to contribute to its future evolution.

Thomas Cottier

III. Footnoting
The Editors of JIEL attach high importance to proper references and citations. These should enable the readers to find a source the author refers to as quickly and easily as possible. Thus, sources that are not accessible to all readers, e.g., speeches and LL.M. theses should only be used if unavoidable.
Case law
References to cases in footnotes should, as a general rule, provide the full name of the case where it first appears. Common form abbreviations may be introduced in parentheses and then used in subsequent references. The case name should always be italicized. The first reference should cite to an official reporter and include the case number, the year of decision, and the name of the court issuing the judgment.

WTO
Please cite Appellate Body Reports as follows:

Appellate Body Report, Australia – Salmon, above n 32, para 118.

You may wish to consult the list of citations of Appellate Body, Panel, and GATT Dispute Settlement Reports produced by the WTO Secretariat which is available at http://www.oxfordjournals.org/jielaw/for_authors/index.html

European Court of Justice
Please cite judgements of the ECJ or CFI as follows:

ECJ, Case C-280/93 Germany v Council (1994) ECR I-4973, para 92.

Germany v Council, above n 32, para 56.

Municipal courts
Together with the name of the court, please provide the country, e.g., US Supreme Court. If a court does not have an English name, please add a translation.

Entscheidungen des Bundesgerichtshofes in Zivilsachen [BGHZ] [Federal Supreme Court of Germany] 53, 125 (126), available at http://www.uni-karlsruhe.de/~bgh/.

Articles

Journal articles
Authors may follow the citation style of their preference as long as the same style is employed consistently throughout the manuscript. The following information must be provided: full name of the author(s), title of the article, journal name, volume number, first page of the article, year of publication, and page or pages on which specific material appears. The full journal name is preferred over abbreviations. Journal articles may be referred to as follows:

If you refer to a non-consecutively paginated journal, please add the issue number in parentheses after the volume number.

Newspaper articles
Newspaper articles may be referred to as follows:

Books
Authors may follow the citation style of their preference as long as the same style is employed consistently throughout the manuscript. The following information must be provided: full name of the author(s), title, place of publication, publisher, edition, year of publication, and page numbers. Books may be cited as follows:

Contributions to books
These may be referred to as follows:

References to web sites and other electronic databases
Web site references are encouraged, but must include the essential information: author, title, the location (URL), and the date the source was last visited.

Citations to journals that appear only on the Internet should include the volume number, title of the journal, and the sequential article number.

References to unpublished materials
If unavoidable, unpublished materials such as speeches and LL.M. theses can be referred to as follows:
